It is expected that the session will continue about a week, during which, public meetings will be held frequently, and an excur- G. S. Hunt has repeatedly attacked the order of the sion to the White Mountains will be made within the time.

PERSONAL -- We are authorized by W. W. Stringfield, Grand Worthy Patriarch of East Tennessee, to state that brother J. B. Campbell, whose circular has been sent to our Subordinate Divisions, is a member of the Sons in good standing, and is every way worthy of the sympathy and aid of the Order. This notice is given in answer to many enquries addressed to brother Stringgeld in reference to brother Campbell, and we trust that those who have the ability will give such answers to the appeal made to them as will place our deeply afflicted brother in a condition to repay the kindness which may be

Come Join Our Order!

Kind reader, are you a member of an active temperance organization? and are you exerting what influence you have, through some organization, for the promotion of the cause of Temperance? I know that many professing christians stand aloof, whose example and influence keep back many others, who but for them would carnestly co-operate for the good of the cause. Are you one of them? You may be sincere, and think that you are doing no harm to the cause, by such a course. If so, you have taken a very limited, and still have a very imperfect, view | ler and R. H. Abernathy. of the subject. You withhold from the cause of temperance and of humanity, which suffers for the want of your influence, the encouragement of your example, and the aid of your co-operation. But you do not stand alone. Almost everybody influences some other one to do as he does; and some persons influence a great many that way. And yet, probably, not one time in a hundred does the individual know, or even mistrust that others are influenced by his example.-The result is, not so much good is accomplished by the temperance people-fewer inebriates are reclaimed from drunkenness-fewer young men are turned out of the ways leading to intemperance-more people get discouraged; while many work for the enterprise with less heart and satisfaction .-My dear friend, can you feel easy in your own conscience, while you are doing nothing to prevent, or restore, others from the terrible blight of drunkenness? The good and doeth it not, to him it is sin." . In the representation of the scenes of the last judgment, persons are driven away into punishment on account of having simply neglected to do what was in their power to do, for the poor and needy among them. A christian should certainly never feel that he has done all his duty, while anything, yet in his power to do, remains undone, for the spiritual good of his fellow men.

Our Stated Meetings.

Every Son of Temperance is expected punctually to attend the stated meetings of or claims of his family" do not prevent. In no better way can he manifest his earnestness and sincerity for the cause. We therefore join our worthy cotemporary of the Illinois Son of Temperance in urging upon all those, "enrolled among the champions of temperance," to keep that sacred confided to their keeping? How can it be done, but by meeting often in council? He that lives alone, may have many virtues, yet they, like the qualities of the lone tree upon the plain, are not of a refined, elevated tone; but go to the throng where a generous rivalry inspires, where men from the purest motives of benevolence vie with each other in acts of love, and behold choice fruit. Meeting often opposition are adroit in their plans, hence the cause should have the wisdom of all its adherents at its stated councils, that every effort may be well directed and efficient in the expulsion of a legalized system of vice. The work is important, yet it cannot be carried with our Colporteur a week through a on without proper zeal; to get it we must swampy section, where it was thought to be have the mechanical effort, the assembling together. But few maintain their interest in a continued absence from the Division .-Though they keep their covenanted rela. were given at every house. Since that week's tion, they feel not the quickening influence that equips and enables us to bring into service every fact, that prepares for a skillful defence of the Order as an-effective means for the spread of total abstinence .-

However much we may desire to see the principles of sobriety and temperance reigning in all the walks of life, we cannot reasonably expect it without sacrifice and effort.

Elequent Truths.

We select the following paragraphs from the Report of the G. W. P. of Massachusetts, made at the late our Colporteur labors in the families. quarterly session of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance of that State :

Our Order may justly be proud of its youthful strength.— They find in our meetings social pleasures, intellectu-al culture, and that higher culture of the heart which s gained by laboring for the good of others, by forgetting self-interest, by learning that there is an object in life nobler than wealth or power or the praise and instructive little paper.

For the Spirit of the Age Colportage in North Carolina.

Since the first of March I have been greaty blessed of God in my humble efforts to spread gospel light among the poor and perishing. During the quarter I labored in sixteen counties; made 483 religious family visits; found 109 families neglecting evangelical preaching, 97 destitute of all religious books, 28 who never owned a Bible, and 203 who never had a religious visit and prayer at their houses before. I have also aided in olding 31 public meetings. Ministers of different denominations have opened my way both publicly and privately. I have visited and labored with several of our Colporteurs on their fields, where I have seen and heard much of the fruits of their daily labors from house to house. One family seemed not even to care for religious books. but desired to buy novels. The Colporteur exhibited his books, and sold "Persuasives to Early Piety" to this family, which was Book tells us, "He that knoweth to do good the means of the conversion of a grown son and daughter, who have since been active in getting their associates to buy and read this excellent book, instead of throwing, away their time and souls by novels. In another county the Colporteur found 70 families in one section who never had a reigious visit before. After catechising and encouraging them at their homes by several visits, he got them to unite in a Sabbath School and prayer meeting, in which there is deep interest. A wealthy gentleman told me that he spent a day riding through this neighborhood to satisfy himself as to the effect of Colportage, which resulted in impressing him that it was the best system for effectually reaching all classes and conditions, because it united the social influence with the power of God's truth at the fireside, on the his Division-when "his business, or the pri- strong ground, simply, of Christian love free of sectarianism. This gentleman says that he shall feel it to be both a duty and privilege to support a Colporteur annually, even if he knew it would do no other good than to improve society, for safety and happiness

In another county the Colporteur visited a similar neighborhood which also resulted in the formation of a Sabbath School, under a board shelter in the woods, where parents and children are being taught the alphabet, to spell, and read. I met with some of the pious, intelligent friends who go six or eight miles to aid in teaching this school. This Colporteur has found whole families entirely neglecting church and school, with no books at all, having children fourteen years old who never heard a sermon. Reliable persons in this county told me that it was six or eight miles to the nearest place of preaching, and they, though members of the church, had with us, is essential for other reasons : the not been able to hear a sermon in two years. and that some of their neighbors had not heard a sermon in more than twenty years. The many intelligent and pious of that county are heartily co-operating with our Colporteur by their personal efforts and liberal donations in supplying the wants. In another county, a minister says he went dangerous to go, and because of the poverty they could scarcely get necessary food for themselves and horses while visiting them. Suitable books and instruction, with prayer, labor they have continued to improve, and for a year or two they have had four Sunday Schools; and this minister has just ordered of the Colporteur $30 worth of books to replenish these schools. In a recent letter the minister says: "Of the many converted in these schools there are three men, now superintendents, holding prayer meetings, visiting and praying with their neighbors at their homes, who, when he and the Colporteur first visted them, were drunkards and great disturbers of the neighborhood. During the quarter. I have visited, or been informed of, 78 Sabbath Schools which are believed to have resulted, more or less, from

A few Sabbaths ago I walked eight miles to visit one of these Sabbath Schools, now numbering about 90 scholars, and such interest, good order and improvement I have are closed to a man because he is a drunkard; or because we fear that his inability to keep the Piedge will seldom before seen; and I have never before seen happier faces than after I there scattered "We have, during the past term and past year, added to our numbers many young men-some who had religious paper some of them ever owned, the "Child's Paper" among them-the first and this they owned by a donation from a pious lady, who has since more than doubled her donation to make other young hearts glad. I trust that others will follow her example and instructive little paper-10 copies a year

I have also heard of 142 persons hopefully converted by God's blessing upon printed truth and personal religious conversation. Two persons told me that the tract, "Ye Must Be Born Again," by Rev. Dr. Cutler, had been made a great blessing to their souls that any neglect in such a case, springs from thought-lessness and not from intention. But we should retracts to give to persons calling at his office, and especially to seamen, says, "Send me a good supply of the tract 'Come to Jesus.' Last Summer I had reached my fifty-third year, when I was induced by a friend to purchase two bottles of Heimstreet's Hair Restorative, prepared by you. I commenced using it according to directions, and in a few days was surprised to find that my hair from the roots outward was turning back to its original color. Some five or six years since it began to turn gray, and the scalp on the c.own of my head to lose its sensibil. y and dandruff to form upon it. Each of these disagreeabilities increased with time, and about four months since a fourth was added to them, by hair falling off the top of my head and threatening to make me baid. In this unpl asant predicament, I was induced to try Wood's Hair Restorative, mainly to arrest the falling off of my hair, for I had really no expectation that gray hair could over be restored to its original color except from dyes. I was, however, greatly surprised to find after the use of two bottles only, that not only was the falling off arrested, but the color was restored to the gray hairs and sensicility to the scalp, and dandruff
